TL;DR: Friday was a stabilisation day — S&P +0.05%, Dow +0.46%, Nasdaq –0.64% — but the tape stayed two-track: every S&P sector rose except tech, and Intel gave back its entire post-earnings pop (–7.9%) as the market kept selling AI capex. The Mag7 lost ~$797bn Thursday (worst since Apr-2025) and are ~$2trn below their late-May peak. Over the weekend the US and Iran paused attacks for a second day while Oman-brokered Hormuz talks progressed — oil gapped ~5% lower into the Asia open (WTI ~$84.9, Brent ~$92) and US futures are up (NQ +1.1%). Hedgeye flipped the Nasdaq and XLK to Bearish TREND and raised the probability of Quad 3. Now comes the macro week of the summer: FOMC Wed (decision Thu 02:00 GMT+8, ~34% hike odds priced), MSFT+META Wed, AAPL+AMZN Thu, Core PCE Thu, BoJ Fri.

Today’s actionable levels — what to watch

- ◆ S&P 500: 7,412 — back INSIDE the Hedgeye 7,355–7,537 range (bullish) after Thursday’s break. Holding 7,355 keeps the bull case; futures indicate ~7,490.
- ▼ Nasdaq: 24,976 vs a 24,911–25,890 range that is now BEARISH TREND — the regime change of the week. A close below 24,911 opens the downside; overnight bounces are suspect until the signal recovers.
- ▼ WTI: $84.9 (–5% o/n) vs $80.93–$93.41, still bullish TREND. De-escalation is testing mid-range; ~$81 is the line — TREND intact above it, and any failed-talks headline re-opens $93+.
- ▲ US 10Y / USDJPY: 4.68% vs 4.55–4.73% into the FOMC; USD/JPY 163.7 sits ABOVE the Hedgeye 163.50 top with the BoJ + Outlook Report Friday — intervention/hawkish-surprise risk is live.
- ◆ VIX: 18.6 cash / ~18.9 futures, range 15.67–19.94 (bearish). 19.94 is the regime flip — tight coil into FOMC + four Mag7 prints.

2 The big picture — what it means

- 1. De-escalation is suddenly the driver. The US and Iran paused strikes for a second straight day, Iran–Oman talks on reopening the Strait of Hormuz made progress, and a Pakistan-brokered, China-backed push for new talks emerged. Oil gapped ~5% lower into Asia and equity futures rallied. But Trump told Axios he is still "considering a massive attack. Bigger than ever before" — the tape is binary on headlines in both directions.
- 2. The AI-capex reckoning is broadening. After Alphabet and Tesla triggered a $797bn one-day Mag7 wipeout Thursday (~$2trn off the late-May peak), Friday showed the more worrying pattern: even a blowout gets sold — Intel round-tripped its +12% after-hours pop to close –7.9%. The market is paying for AI landlords (DLR +14%, EQIX +6.7%) and punishing AI spenders. MSFT/META (Wed) and AAPL/AMZN (Thu) now decide whether this is a correction or a regime change.
- 3. The macro week of the summer. FOMC decision Wed 2pm ET (Thu 02:00 GMT+8) with Chair Warsh’s presser — no dot plot this meeting. Markets price ~34% odds of a 25bp HIKE (two hikes by Jan-27) after the oil spike, though Citi expects a dovish hold. Core PCE lands Thursday; the BoJ concludes Friday with its Outlook Report, with the yen at 163.7 and Japan’s 40Y yield up 10bp on inflation fears.
- 4. Hedgeye’s regime shift: dispersion, not correlation. Friday’s Early Look flipped the Nasdaq and XLK to Bearish TREND while SPX/RUT stay bullish, put energy back on a bullish signal, and raised the probability of Quad 3 as energy, grains and copper rise. Single-stock vol is near a 10-year high relative to the index — "the index isn’t calm, it’s netted out."

3 Rates, currencies & commodities

- Rates: 10Y 4.679% (–2.4bp Friday, first dip after a days-long rise; range 4.55–4.73% bullish); 2Y ~4.33% (4.19–4.37%); 30Y sits over 5% (5.08–5.18% bullish). Credit is starting to blink: HYG flipped to bearish (79.18–79.81) alongside LQD (106.1–107.7).
- US Dollar: DXY 101.47 close / 101.32 o/n — biggest weekly gain since mid-June (+0.7%), bullish TREND 100.47–101.60. EUR/USD 1.139 (bearish); GBP/USD 1.335 (bullish).
- Yen — the sleeper risk: USD/JPY 163.7, ABOVE the Hedgeye 162.01–163.50 range top and near the 163.98 52-week extreme, with Japan’s 40Y yield +10bp on inflation fears and GPIF-repatriation chatter. BoJ + Outlook Report Friday is the event.
- Oil: WTI $89.31 / Brent $96.78 Friday settles (–3–4%) after the biggest weekly rally since 2022; overnight WTI $84.88 / Brent $92.00 (–5%) on the diplomatic pause. Hedgeye keeps both bullish (WTI $80.93–$93.41, Brent $87–$102). Jet-fuel costs are soaring; refined products are the tighter story.
- Metals & broad reflation: Gold $4,092 o/n (+0.5%) — resilient but still bearish TREND ($3,953–$4,150); silver $59.9 (+1.8%) pressing the $61 top; copper 6.36, bullish (6.15–6.56). Nat gas 2.84, bearish. The commodity mix still argues Quad 3.

4 Hedgeye Risk Ranges & regime

Regime: Quad 3 probability RAISED — energy, grains and copper rising while growth-y tech breaks down. Friday’s Early Look, "The Way You Make Me Feel (About Selling and Buying Back)" (R. Patrick Kent): follow the TRADE/TREND signals even when it means reversing — semis crashed 15%, ripped back, and "might crash again"; oil went back to bullish trend, so add to energy; single-stock vol near a 10-yr high vs the index means dispersion is running the tape. MOMO Tracker: AMZN and META flipped BEARISH; GOOGL (–7.1%) + TSLA (–14.5%) = 30% of the SPX decline. Chart of the Day flagged a South Korean KOSPI Crash Signal — published hours before the Kospi’s –5.7% Friday. Immediate-term ranges (TREND = intermediate signal):

US Dollar (DXY)	100.47 – 101.60	Bullish

Utilities (XLU)	$44.54 – $46.71	Bullish
Real Estate (XLRE)	$44.25 – $45.66	Bullish

Shanghai Comp (SSEC)	3,711 – 3,935	Bearish
German DAX	24,500 – 25,243	Bearish

Signal changes vs Thursday: Nasdaq Bullish→BEARISH; XLK Neutral→BEARISH; HYG Neutral→BEARISH; SPX floor lowered 7,420→7,355 (Friday's close now back inside).

Where price sits in its 52-week range

S&P 500	L 5,921	H 7,621	· last 7,412 (88%)
Nasdaq	L 18,900	H 27,190	· last 24,976 (73%)

6 Positioning & options

- VIX: 18.58 cash close (-0.6%), ~18.9 in weekend trade — a tight coil under the 19.94 regime line with FOMC + four Mag7 prints + BoJ all inside five sessions. This is cheap-looking vol against a binary macro week.
- Rates positioning is the crowded trade: ~34% odds of a July HIKE priced, two full hikes by Jan-2027 — a dovish-hold FOMC (Citi's call) is the pain trade for duration shorts; an actual hike hits everything long-duration.
- Crypto as the ceasefire proxy: BTC +1.8% to ~$65.4k, ETH +4.6% — "bulls pricing in an Iran ceasefire that hasn't happened yet" (Stocktwits). BTC has been trading Washington, not blockchain data.
- Credit: HYG flipped to bearish TREND alongside LQD — the first crack in the "credit is calm" pillar. Watch HYG 79.18.
- The bear case in one line: Michael Burry — $100 oil colliding with an AI debt explosion: "Not sure how much longer."

7 Sector rotation — leaders & laggards (Fri)

- Leaders: Everything except tech — data-centre REITs (DLR +14% on a beat-and-raise, EQIX +6.7%), oil services (SLB +9.7%), healthcare (Tenet +17.2%, Edwards +5.8%), enterprise software/legacy tech (CRM +4.3%, IBM +4.1%), Apple +3.5%.
- Laggards: Semis & AI hardware — INTC -7.9% (full round-trip of the blowout), MXL -21.5%, NBIS -15%, BE -14.9%, ALAB -10.2%, SNDK -9.3%, AEHR -13.8%; payments (AXP -4.9% on revenue/Nil miss); telco (CHTR -5.1%).
- Rotation read: Money is leaving AI-capex momentum and hiding in AI infrastructure landlords, defensives and yield — exactly what Hedgeye's XLK-bearish / XLV-XLU-XLRE-bullish signal stack says. Dispersion over direction.

8 Forward — futures & the week ahead

- Futures (07:00 GMT+8): S&P +0.6% (7,492), Nasdaq-100 +1.1%, Dow +0.45%, Russell +0.9% — a relief bid on the US–Iran pause and oil –5%. Treasuries firmer; gold +0.5%.

Day	Key events (GMT+8)
Mon 27	US durable goods (Jun, exp +3.7%) 20:30; Dallas Fed. Earnings warm-up day. Watch: does the oil gap-down hold?
Tue 28	FOMC meeting begins; US consumer confidence; advance goods trade. Earnings: Coca-Cola, PayPal, Corning, Boeing wave starts.
Wed 29	★ MSFT + META report after the US close (early Thu GMT+8); SK Hynix & KLA results. FOMC decision lands Thu 02:00 GMT+8 + Warsh presser 02:30 (no dot plot).
Thu 30	★ AAPL + AMZN after the US close; US Core PCE (Jun); BoJ 2-day meeting starts. Ford also reports this week.
Fri 31	★ BoJ decision + quarterly Outlook Report (~11:00–12:00 GMT+8) — yen at 163.7 makes this live. Month-end flows.

9 Corporate news

- Intel round-trips the blowout: –7.89% to $92.32 Friday, fully erasing Thursday's +12% AH surge on the best print in ~15 years — the cleanest evidence yet that this tape sells AI-capex good news.
- American Express –4.87%: EPS beat but revenue and net interest income missed — the premium consumer is fine, the margin isn't.
- Verizon: EPS $1.30 (+3c beat); revenue $34.25bn ~3% light. Mixed.
- Digital Realty +14% / Equinix +6.7%: DLR beat, raised FY guidance and drew upgrades — the AI-landlord trade is alive even as AI-spender stocks get hit. EQIX reports Wed.
- Qualcomm price letter: QCOM told customers it can no longer absorb rising costs — double-digit price increases coming amid chip shortages. Inflationary for the whole electronics chain.
- Samsung & SK Hynix — "very large" US chip deals: Seoul says both will sign major long-term memory supply agreements with US tech firms during President Lee Jae Myung's Silicon Valley visit (meetings with Nvidia's Huang, OpenAI's Altman, Anthropic's Amodei, Broadcom's Tan). SK Hynix reports Wed — the HBM tell.
- SpaceX: Starship Flight 13 succeeded Friday night (second consecutive success; 20 Starlink sats deployed; booster exploded on its water landing) — first flight since the IPO. SPCX had slipped 1.5% pre-launch; HSBC cautious.
- Also: Tenet +17.2% (beat + raise), Charter –5.1% (mixed), Robert Half –5% (soft demand), Cathie Wood bought $50.1m of TSLA into the –19% week.

10 Macro data

- US: S&P Global flash PMI showed business activity expanding at the fastest pace in eight months in July (World Cup boost) — awkward for rate-cut hopes; June new home sales also landed Friday (exp ~606k). ~88% of S&P reporters are beating EPS. Durable goods Monday, Core PCE Thursday.
- Tariffs are now live: Trump's new Section 301 tariffs took effect Friday — covering 99.4% of US imports at 10–12.5% for top trading partners, with some energy products exempt. A fresh inflation input the Fed must absorb this week.
- Japan: BoJ concludes Friday with the quarterly Outlook Report; 40Y JGB yield +10bp on inflation fears, USD/JPY 163.7, and a MarketWatch-flagged risk that GPIF ($1.8trn) brings money home — a US rates/equities spillover story.
- Europe: Post-ECB hawkish hold, equities rebounded Friday (DAX +1.4% to 25,099 — right at its 24,500–25,243 bearish range top; FTSE +0.9%).
- China / Korea: Late-July Politburo (stimulus) still the catalyst; Friday was soft (SSE –1.6%, Shenzhen –2.5%). Korea: Kospi –5.7% crash Friday; President Lee's US tech diplomacy is the counter-narrative.

11 Geopolitics

- US–Iran pause: Strikes paused for a second straight day on both sides after 13 consecutive nights of US action (four US service members killed earlier in the week). Talks continue toward an interim ceasefire; Iran–Oman negotiations on Hormuz transit made progress, with the sticking point being who controls the transit route.
- Pakistan/China mediation: Oil fell on reports Pakistan is pushing new US–Iran talks with Beijing's backing — "the Chinese are unhappy" that Hormuz closure is hitting their interests. China is Iran's biggest customer; this pressure matters.
- The other side of the coin: Trump told Axios he is "considering a massive attack. Bigger than ever before... They haven't received enough pain yet." No order given — but one headline reverses the entire overnight move.
- Supply workarounds: Saudi rerouting via Red Sea ports and raising prices for Asia; US signalling possible SPR release and letting India take Russian crude already at sea; refined-products (jet fuel, diesel) markets remain the acute stress point.

12 Asia setup — today (Mon 27 Jul, pre-open)

Index	Level / move	Read
-------	--------------	------

US futures	▲ higher (NQ +1.1%)	Relief bid: Iran pause + oil -5% + Mag7-earnings hope
Nikkei 225	▲ Fri close 64,611 (-2.7%)	Set firm: oil relief is a gift to importers — but BoJ Fri, yen 163.7 and the 40Y spike cap it; Hedgeye NIKK bearish 63,106–67,582
Kospi (Korea)	◆ Fri close 6,690.62 (-5.7%)	THE tell today. Crash Friday (Hedgeye flagged the signal); Samsung/SK Hynix US mega-deals + SK Hynix results Wed argue for a bounce — respect the broken signal though
Topix	▲ Fri close 4,011 (-1.1%)	Value/banks cushioned; oil relief positive
Hang Seng	◆ Fri close 24,963 (-1.0%)	Steady; late-July Politburo stimulus the catalyst
CSI 300 / SSE	◆ SSE Fri 3,814 (-1.6%)	SSEC bearish TREND 3,711–3,935; policy watch
Taiwan (TWII)	▲ Fri close 43,655 (-2.7%)	Chip relief-bounce candidate on futures + Korea deal news
S&P/ASX 200	◆ Fri close 8,772 (-0.75%)	Two-way: energy drag (oil -5%) vs broad relief bid

Read: This brief lands pre-open (~07:15 GMT+8) — Monday levels are futures/indications, not cash. The setup is a classic relief bounce (Iran pause, oil -5%, US futures up ~1%) landing on top of Friday’s Asian tech wreckage. Whether the Kospi can actually bounce after a -5.7% crash — with Hedgeye’s crash signal live but Korean chip mega-deals in the headlines — is the single best read on whether the global AI trade stabilises into MSFT/META Wednesday.

13 AI watch

- The capex reckoning, stage two: Stage one was punishing the spenders (GOOGL -7.1%, TSLA capex +142%). Stage two, on display Friday, is selling even great AI results (INTC -7.9% after a blowout). Four Mag7 prints this week decide if AI-capex remains a sell-the-news tape.
- Memory is the strong hand: Samsung/SK Hynix set to sign "very large" long-term US supply deals; Qualcomm pushing double-digit price hikes amid shortages; SK Hynix earnings Wed. HBM/DDR5 tightness is the most defensible AI exposure on the board.
- Own the landlords, rent the tenants: DLR +14% and EQIX +6.7% into Wednesday’s EQIX print — data-centre REITs (XLRE bullish TREND) are absorbing the rotation out of AI hardware. The bear case remains Burry’s: $100 oil + AI debt.

14 Beyond the markets

- Starship "Lucky 13": Second consecutive successful test flight Friday night — all 33 engines lit, 20 Starlink satellites deployed, Indian Ocean splashdown; the booster’s landing burn failed in a spectacular water explosion. First flight of the post-IPO era.
- Energy security: Jet-fuel costs are soaring and hitting airlines again; Saudi price hikes for Asia and rerouted Red Sea loadings keep shipping-insurance and freight costs elevated for importers.
- Water cooler: The World Cup is literally showing up in US macro data (fastest business activity in 8 months per the flash PMI); Amazon’s FTC settlement claim window ($51 refunds) closes today, 27 July.
